

GOOCHLAND ASTER FOR BETTER ROADS

Enthusiastic Highway Meeting at Peers May Lead to Large Bond Issue by County

[Special From a Staff Correspondent.]
RICHMOND, Va., October 30.—Goouchland will soon be in line with the progressive counties of the State if the advocates for good roads in the county have their way. At the meeting held here to-day sentiment for improved highways ran high. A number of local speakers expressed their confidence that the county should enlist in the good roads movement, while others declared their purpose to advocate a bond issue. The entire day was given over to good roads speeches, with the exception of a brief interval for dinner. Hon. John Lamb and Dr. D. S. Freeman, both of Richmond, and Benjamin Cooke, of Hanover county, addressed the large assembly in urging activity for good roads.

Mad Tax Drain on County.
All seem agreed that the time has come for Goochland to do away with the mad tax. The county is rather thinly populated and has been unable during recent years to take the proper place among the counties of Virginia. The clay roads have been badly washed and have not been given the necessary attention by the county authorities.

As a result, many of the most important are absolutely impassable in winter weather, and even in summer many can be only used with difficulty. Despite the fact that the Three-Chop Road runs through the county, and despite the fact that the haul to Richmond from this place is only about fifteen miles, few farmers can stand the heavy wear and tear on their teams and wagons. As a result, many of them, who might market directly in Richmond, fall to do so.

The progressive members of the county declare their purpose to rig the county of this great drawback and to place it where it may enjoy all the benefits of good roads.

County May Issue Bonds.
From all accounts Goochland is in an admirable condition to improve her roads. The county has not a dollar of bonded debt, and already collects a road tax of 20 cents per $100. In the estimation of many voters here to-day, these facts are better reasons for the county in issuing bonds for the permanent improvement of the roads.

Others believe that the county should proceed more slowly, though they are equally determined to take immediate action for better roads.

All of these sentiments were fully voiced at the barbecue and meeting held here to-day. When Captain W. H. Crouch, ex-sheriff of the county, introduced the first speaker, Benjamin Cooke, of Hanover county, he introduced in glowing terms the desire of Goochland for better roads. Mr. Cooke, in an admirable speech, explained to the audience the system under which Rockwell's District, Hanover county, had built its splendid system of roads. The all-important factor, he argued, was active, general and widespread interest in road-working. Paper roads, he declared, would not stand heavy travel and rough weather.

Captain Lamb Speaks.
Hon. John Lamb, who was next introduced, addressed the voters in a careful speech on the social and economic aspects of good roads. He pointed out that the fabric of the county might be improved by good roads, and he urged upon the voters the duty of the county to leave to the next generation a heritage of perfect highways.

Goods Trade a Pest of Progress.
At the conclusion of Captain Lamb's speech, the exercises were suspended, while the entire audience, numbering more than 125, shared a dinner prepared for the occasion. After the information Captain Crouch introduced Dr. D. S. Freeman, of The Times-Dispatch, who explained in detail the systems under which highways were being constructed throughout the State. After pointing out the various arguments in favor of good roads, Dr. Freeman declared that the question was simply whether the county should put the seal of progress upon its work by liberal appropriations for good roads—the open avenue to prosperity. Captain Crouch and Rev. F. W. Clements concluded the afternoon program with spirited appeals to the county. The latter speaker, who is a Methodist clergyman, has been in large measure the father of the good roads movement in the county and has been recognized as the most unflinching advocate of better highways.

Altogether the meeting to-day was most encouraging to those who believe that every county in the State should be entitled to good roads. Goochland is certainly prepared to do her part, and may, ere long, be expected to give concrete proof of her purpose.
